Newhaven Outreach Provision

- Staff Profile

My name is: Heather Damons

My pronouns are: She/her

My job is:

Newhaven Outreach teacher and Head of Queen Elizabeth Hospital school. I am primarily an English teacher but love teaching other subjects, especially those that develop student interest.

The best part of my job is:

Working with young people and seeing them building their skills and developing confidence in their learning.

Things I enjoying doing in my free time:

I love activities that give me the opportunity to relax and have fun. I enjoy solitary activities like reading and puzzling because they give me the opportunity to spend some time on my own.

I'm also an ace at card and board games. I love winning and I'm a sore loser!

I'm passionate about:

I am passionate about ensuring that every young person has the literacy skills that enables them to have privacy because they are able to read and respond to any correspondence that is meant for them.

I want every young person to have the opportunity to be an engaged member of society and believe that engagement with education is a stepping stone that enables it.
