Newhaven Outreach Provision

- Staff Profile

My name is: Laurence Caillouët

My pronouns are: She/her

My job is: I am an Outreach teacher.

I worked previously as a modern Foreign language teacher in a mainstream secondary school.

The best part of my job is: I love helping students to reconnect with learning in a positive and supportive way. One of the most rewarding aspects of my work is seeing students build their skills and grow in confidence. In Outreach, I teach a variety of different subjects and work hard to build students' confidence, particularly in subjects they may find intimidating.

Things I enjoy doing in my free time:

Reading is one of my biggest passion. I always have a book on the go and can't imagine a day without reading. I love getting lost in stories, discovering new perspectives, and learning more about the world through books. It's also one of my favourite ways to relax and unwind. I also love writing.

I love spending time with my family, both in England and in France.

Running and exercise are a big part of my life now (it did not use to be when I was younger!). I love how it helps me switch off, clear my head, and let go of stress. It bring me a real sense of joy and energy.

Being in London is a dream for me as it is a wonderful town and there is so much to do. I love going to Central London and visit museums, galleries, parks, looking at the wonderful buildings.

I love eating good food. I am surrounded by people who cook very well and I am improving my cooking skills

I'm passionate about:

Helping others and more particularly helping students bridge gaps in their learning and develop their skills in order to live their lives fully and with joy. I have a real desire to positively influence young people's lives and help them recognise their own value and potential.

Travelling and discovering new cultures.

Nature and the fight against climate change.
